Dear Readers,

It is an honor to present this special edition of The Lamp Newsletter International. I am very impressed by the research on Presidents' Day by Author Ramelle T. Lee, our staff writer. She's very interested in history, politics, patriot events and holidays. She regularly writes articles honoring our veterans and military service men and women.

I am concerned. We have leaders in America who deserves honor and respect for many, many notable and honorary things that they have done. Sadly, we are at a time in our history where there is a lot of disrespect and bitterness concerning past and present governmental leadership and administration.

Last year, in 2020, I never thought I would live to see the uproar, protesting, fighting, riots and violence across our land, here in the United States of America. So many of the statues and landmark monuments were removed, damaged or destroyed because of the racial tension and racial movements. History was written and rewritten in 2020. What we at one-time honored and respected got ripped from us or trashed! Smoke, fire, marches and rioting erupted right in our face! It was all CRAZY!

Our children saw it all, too. I am a teacher and educator. I taught in the public and private schools around Michigan, especially in Detroit. When I was in the classroom, I taught the children to uphold the office of our USA presidents and governmental officials on all levels: city, state and Washington. I wanted them to know more about our government, to learn about what great people have done for their country and for them to become respectable citizens.

My heart desires were for them to grow-up to be determined to do right, live upright, and become the best at whatever God wanted from them. I am thrilled to say that I have never received or heard a bad report about these precious children from Headstart, preschool, kindergarten, and primary grades (first-fifth). This has spanned from over 40 years that I have been blessed to rejoice over these children that I taught who now are productive adults, leaders and responsible citizens.

So, what I am saying is...let us look at Presidents' Day on Monday, February 15, 2021 in a different way. Let us restore honor to the office of the President of the United of America. Let us weigh our words carefully concerning our feelings, dislikes, and grievances. This holiday, please DON'T SPREAD ANGER because of your political point of views. PLEASE STOP THE RAGE!

I am thankful for the informative article that Author Lee has presented. She has given us something to learn and think about. I hope that you will share this newsletter with your family, friends and others.

PRAY FOR AMERICA! Ask God to shower down blessings! We need His help, strength, wisdom and protection!
